Meeting Space Standards

Meeting Space Seating Styles

The Aviyaan's meeting spaces will provide guests with a convenient and efficient environment for many meeting styles. Below, find some examples of various room set-ups, and a brief outline of their best uses.

U-Shape: A series of conference tables set in the shape of the letter U with chairs around the outside.

This set-up is often used for meetings and discussion groups where there is a speaker, visual presentation or other focal point. While ideal for maximum individual workspace and interaction between guests, it is space-inefficient for larger groups.

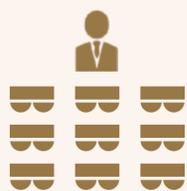

All U-Shapes must be skirted on the inside of the U.

Theater: Recommended for events where guests will act as an audience

(less so for events where guests will take notes).

Chairs are set in rows facing a head table, podium or speaker. The Theater set-up is very space efficient, and an excellent way to accommodate a large number of guests with a single focal point

Classroom: Rows of conference tables, set with chairs on one side, facing a head table, podium or speaker

This set-up provides writing and work space for each guest. This room set is ideal for events where guests will take notes, follow along with reference materials or use laptop computers. It also allows for space to consume refreshments. Classroom set-ups provide the presenter with a view of all guests and is space efficient. However, guests may only interact minimally with each other.

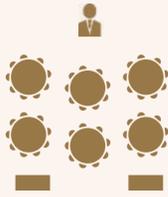

ALL first rows of classroom sets must be skirted

Meeting Space Standards

Boardroom: A rectangular table with chairs set around all sides and ends

Ideal for Board of Directors' meetings, committee meetings and discussion groups, this set-up provides ample work space and good interaction between participants. Less ideal for audio-visual presentations and larger groups or groups with a single focal point, this set-up may be managed for increased group size by building blocks or hollow square out of many conference tables

Banquet: Recommended for social events, and facilitates the service of food and beverages

The Banquet set-up is characterized by the placement of multiple round tables, each with chairs for seating 8-10 guests, and may include a buffet or service table. Banquet set-up may also be useful for small business meetings with break out discussion groups or note taking. Reception tables and all round tables must be skirted.
